

Tax Savings Simplified.

As American as taxes are, unless you're a CPA the details are still Greek to most of us. Take a look at the chart below to determine when you should opt for a Tax Lease or when it would be best to choose a Capital Lease. Pro tip: you should always review your own unique situation with your tax advisor!

TAX LEASE

VS.

CAPITAL LEASE

- // Tax write-offs over time...for when you don't need a large write-off in the year of purchase, and prefer to spread your savings out.
- // Write off monthly payments throughout your entire term (whether that's 3 years or 5+)!
- // Purchase option based on Fair Market Value (FMV). Typically 10%.
- // Keep the option to upgrade open. You can purchase OR return equipment at the end of term - especially appealing when your equipment type has frequent changes in technology.

- // Accelerated tax benefits. Via Section 179, you may be able to expense 100% of the cost of equipment in the year it was acquired (up to $1,080,000).
- // Larger tax savings up-front vs. writing off payments over time.
- // Purchase equipment at the end of term for a pre-determined amount (typically $1, 10%, or 20%), no returns!

SO...HOW MUCH AM I LOOKING AT SAVING?

That'll depend on the details of your agreement. The example below will give you a ballpark figure of where you could come in, and we also have a tax savings calculator on our website \(www.gogc.com\) that you can use to get a closer estimate!

EXAMPLE: $50,000 worth of equipment 36 month term 35% tax bracket	TAX LEASE	Monthly Payment	Yearly Tax Savings	Total Tax Savings
	10% purchase option	$1,480	$6,216	$18,648*
	or	Monthly Payment	First Year Savings	Total Tax Savings
	CAPITAL LEASE	$1,620	$17,500	$17,500*
	$1 buyout
